Many people think that doing written assignments is not fun. Some are even convinced that it is a waste of time. What benefit can a student get from transferring his or her thoughts to paper? At first glance, it seems that there is none. However, if you look more closely, the benefits of this assignment are quite numerous. It is no coincidence that it is so often used by teachers not only in domestic, but also in foreign institutions of higher education.

First of all, the essay develops critical thinking. The student learns to analyze facts, objectively evaluate their significance and reliability, and draw logical conclusions based on the available information. One of the purposes of this assignment is to express a point of view, supporting it with evidence: quotes, statistical data, etc. In other words, the student must be able to articulate his or her opinion about a given topic correctly. This skill will be useful outside the university as well.

Clarity of statement plays a huge role in writing a good essay. Even if the arguments are chosen correctly, the essay may turn out to be too confusing if you don't pay attention to its structure. It is important to structure the arguments and present the information in a way that makes it easy for the reader to follow the author's thoughts. You have probably ever read a piece of literature where you had to go back to the same sentence over and over again to understand the main point.

It is impossible to write a good piece of literature without editing. You can work on your drafts forever, but you have to know when to stop. As you know, there is no limit to perfection, but that doesn't mean you have to spend days trying in vain to bring your essay to perfection. It is enough to make sure that there are no grammatical and lexical errors, and that each new paragraph continues the thought of the previous one.

After listing the possible benefits of a writing assignment, it is also worth mentioning those students who prefer to use essay writing services. What is their motivation? In most cases, this kind of company is approached for help when there is very little time left to complete the assignment. Students often procrastinate and put off writing assignments for later. This kind of procrastination leads to the fact that many are forced to write their essays at night in order to meet the deadline. This is an additional unnecessary strain on the body, which can end in chronic lack of sleep and headaches. To avoid this unenviable fate, students hire professional writers and complete the assignment with their direct participation.
